Welcome to our newsletter – which we are sending to our distributors and customers.

To subscribe or unsubscribe to this monthly newsletter, please contact roseline.reach@impeto-medical.com.

Article published in Journal of Diabetes and its Complications

The article “Relationships between electrochemical skin conductance and kidney disease in type 2 diabetes” by BI. Freedman et al. has been published in the Journal of Diabetes and its complications. The article is attached to this newsletter. The attached key points summarizes the main results.

Prof. B. Freedman is an active clinician-researcher whose research focuses on genetic causes of kidney and cardiovascular disease, hypertension and type 2 diabetes, particularly in African-Americans; as well as clinical outcomes in chronic kidney disease and after renal transplantation.

Impeto Medical Inc. at AAPM&R

SUDOSCAN has been exhibited at the American Academy of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation conference from October 3-6, 2013 in National Harbor, Maryland (USA).

Communication accepted for the ALAD congress

ALAD is the Latin America Diabetes Association.

Oral presentations
- “SUDOSCAN as a diagnostic tool for diabetic small fiber and autonomic Neuropathy” by Al. Vinik
- “Evaluación del EZSCAN como herramienta para detección de prediabetes y diabetes en un estudio a gran escala en población mexicana” by ME. Rodriguez Arellano

Poster presentations
- “Relationships between electrochemical skin conductance and kidney disease in type 2 diabetes” by BI. Freedman

FORTHCOMING EVENTS

Impeto Medical at ALAD

SUDOSCAN+ will be exhibited at the ALAD congress (Asociacion Latinoamericana de Diabetes) in Cancun, Mexico, from 12-15 November 2013.

Visit us on stand #35

Impeto Medical at IDF

SUDOSCAN+ will be presented at the International Diabetes Foundation conference from December 2-6, 2013 in Melbourne, Australia.

Visit us on stand #A1.